House Due To Approve School Bill

Democrats Defeat Efforts To Weaken $1 Billion Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) - House leaders hope to hand President Johnson a tremendous plum today - passage of his farreaching school bill.

Never in history has the House passed a bill granting broad federal aid to the nation's elementary and secondary schools, but a powerful Democratic majority in the House appears certain to reach that goal today.

Ants speak a chemical language. An insect finding food exudes an odoriferous substance on its way back to the nest. Other ants follow the trail and if they find food, they also will return leaving a scent. As the odor becomes more powerful, other ants rush to the spot. When the food is gone, the ants no longer leave scent trails and the chemical "message" quickly evaporates so as not to confuse the workers.

Two hard facts are dominant in the health-benefits-and-pension-increase bill voted out of the House Ways and Means Committee

1. This is a Johnson administration proposal, and President Johnson has enough votes lined up to pass it in the House, where health-benefit bills have been blocked in previous years.

2. This is a popular proposal with the great majority of the people who will pay for it and benefit by it. They are not afraid of it.

The administration proposal has been made even more attractive to them than the original "medicare" bill by addition of a voluntary option for payment of doctor bills and medical charges not covered in the basic hospital-nursing home benefits paid for by involuntary Social Security deductions.

This wide range of benefits would put a floor under the ever-increasing cost of medical care-increasing because of continuous improvement of medical science and the now universal acceptance of the social doctrine that nothing is too good for all those who fall ill.

THERE HAS BEEN a revolution in

There now is going to be a revolution In means of paying for medical care.

Nothing in the government plan will bar persons of means from buying additional medical insurance and participating in prepaid sickness-cost plans.

The government plan will make it possible for states and local communities to get more federal funds to pay the medical expenses of the indigent.

But most Americans do not have the means to protect themselves against unusually heavy medical costs with adequate personal insurance. Neither are most Americans willing to claim indigency if they run into trouble.

This is where the big push for government-sponsored medical security has come from-from ordinary working men and women who do not share the mistrust of Social Security that permeates the thinking of opponents of the "medicare" approach to the problem.

PRINCIPAL opposition was generated by the American Medical Association.

We respect the members of the association. They are our doctors. We have put our confidence in them, and they have "Eldercare" is not politically feasible, and this is essentially a political issue. It is not politically feasible because it is designed only to let the separate states cooperate with the federal government in medical care for the indigent, with a fringe option to let others buy private insurance at "eldercare" rates. The bill does not actually do anything; it only permits the states to do something if their governors and legislators want to do it. And it offers nothing new for

THE ISSUE has not been settled.

Nothing is settled in this society of open discussion and tricky legislative maneuvering until the package is delivered.

But it would appear that the healthbenefits-and-pension-increase package designed by the House Ways and Means be delivered.

It has a big political push behind it. It is a political proposition.

There ceased to be a live issue about President Johnson's favorite medical proposal early last Nov. 4 when he won election in a landslide.

He won a mandate for his ideas.

Unity Of Purpose

Things are looking ever more promising for the branch of Kent State University which will be opened here this fall.

Wednesday night's public meeting, in which two officials associated with the university participated, disclosed an interest which speaks well for the future of the off-campus facility.

Particularly pleasing from a local viewpoint was the fact that more than 175 were on hand to learn about the branch operation and the disclosure that there's a definite possibility that the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters will offer the use of its building on W. 6th St. for day classes if the need arises.

A unity of purpose has been indicated which can spell only success in East Liverpool's new approach to the field of higher education.

This is just one more illustration of the general decline in morals and honesty in our dealings with one another. Since when has it been considered sportsmanlike deliberately to foul an opponent?

You suggested that no player be benched for accumulated foul calls, but that the set total had been reached.

That might tend to cut down on deliberate fouling, but I think it doesn't go far enough. A deliberate foul should be penalized double or more, and the call should be at the judgment of the officials. If that is not splitting hairs fine enough, how about tightening the rules against stalling by a team in the lead? Come to think of it, you can carry the ball from here on out. It was one thing for the world to run out of gold for currency but silver is another thing.

Sylvia Porter, our favorite economic columnist, says silver coins pretty soon won't have any silver in them. She says it won't be long before coins are made of nickel and copper.

Next thing we can expect is for the gas station man to say, "I'm a little short of nickel and copper today, can you make the exact change?

Faithfully yours,

P.S. As one who can take fluoridated water or leave it alone, I pass along this irreverent comment by a wag: "Some people who claim fluoride softens the brain would rather have hard heads and soft teeth than the other way around.

By Truman Twill

Just about the dirtiest name anyone can be called in recent years has been "do-gooder."

It took the place of a dozen or so dirty names that couldn't be muttered in polite society and mixed company.

It has a crummy connotation of impractical dreamer, wool-gathering, of flitting about on scatter-brained missions doomed

Your do-gooder, you could be sure, had never met a payroll. His heart was always bleeding for something that wasn't worth the blood. He was a sucker for lost causes. He was suspected of belonging to bad organizations.

The do-gooder was held personally responsible for all the nation's disenchantment and disillusionment. It was all his fault for being soft-headed. People who knew better and had their feet on the ground never would have been taken in by a lot of lolly-gagging nonsense.

Woodrow Wilson was a horrible example of a do-gooder. So were all conservationists, uplifters and peace promoters who came along after him.

Everyhing that has threatened to undermine the Established Order has been blamed on do-gooders - proposals to clean up slums, disease, loan rackets, oppression of Negroes, bad practices in employment, spoil banks left by strip miners, river and lake pollution.

Do-gooders were behind them all.

But no one spares the time to talk about do-badders.

They are with us, too.

With luck, we might make a dirty name of "do-badder," too. We have in mind pious souls who holler hymns on Sunday and plot to grind down the poverty-stricken the other six days. And people who think what cannot be settled with terror should be settled with clubs - and the sooner the better. And people who claim a special license to push other people around and if anybody objects he is a subversive. And people whose reason for being alive is to plunder everything left unguarded. And people who think the majority is wrong unless it is with them, in which event they despise it for imitating its

And people who twist the Constitution of their country to make it seem to justify things in contradiction to the spirit of its framers.

And people who disort facts to mislead other people .

These are do-badders.

That's a dirty name, too.

That's the message that has gone into the White House, Now those around President Johnson want to know as much as possible about the "quiet man," I.W.

He can make or break industrial peace in the huge steel industry, prosperity in the land and the smooth flow of vital metal during the Viet Nam emergency

Will I. W. Abel, as "unofficial president," call a strike of 450,-000 men in the basic steel industry on the May 1 deadline

THERE ARE suggestions for retirement at 50 years of age at higher pensions. Also, demands for extra payment for older workers if they are laid off for long periods of time or their plant is closed. These payments would run until the worker receives his regular pension at 65 years of age.

The union will fight for a ban on overtime. Of course, there are scores of other demands, including one for a wage hike, since there has been none for four years.

Steel company executives, who generally look at such demands with the cool mien of a croupier, have shuddered publicly this time and say they are 'aghast.'

They say they see the Ameriican industry being priced out of the market by the huge costs which the union demands would process

THE BIG QUESTION is: When will public opinion insist on the use of the method prescribed in the Constitution itself for amending that document?

After the downfall of Hitler. this correspondent happened to be talking with a prominent professor of a German university who had lived in Germany throughout the period of the dictatorship. When asked why he and his fellow citizens allowed Hitler to come into office and extend his power by opportunistic interpretation of the Constitution, the professor replied:

We were indifferent, and didn't sense what was coming. We were too much concerned with our own affairs. We in the educational world were preoccupied with our own pursuits. We took it for granted that everything being done was for a worthy objective. We didn't realize what we were getting into until it was too late.'

Today it would be relatively easy for an autocracy to emerge in America. The power of the chief executive permits him at his discretion to allocate large sums of the taxpavers' money to states which are cooperative and to refuse those sums to states which are cooperative and to refuse those sums to states which do not go along with the will of the chief executive.

MEMBERS OF CONGRESS are submissive because their own elections are controlled by pressure groups whose power is bound to be increased as all voting restrictions are about to be removed.

President Johnson has already suggested that anybody over 18 years of age should be permitted to vote, irrespective of whether he or she can read and

Never in American history has so much power been concentrated in the federal government, which is nowadays virtually directed by the one man who occupies the highest office in the land.

He can insure his own reelection by bestowing favors on the political bosses of the large cities, especially now that electoral votes of most states can be controlled by a few persons with powerful organizations behind them

This has been made easier by the decisions of the Supreme Court compelling a reappor tionment of the states, so that power will be lodged hereafter in the big cities and their bosses. It takes only a few such cities to control a majority of the electoral votes of the country.

County Safety Award Banquet Set April 20

Dr. Tennyson Guyer of Findlay, noted lecturer, will speak at the 15th annual Columbiana County safety awards banquet April 20 at Columbiana, when 20 East Liverpool and Wellsville area firms will be cited.

The event, held annually by the county's Industrial Safety Committee, will be held at the South Side Elementary School at Columbiana.

It is co-sponsored by the Salem Area Chamber of Commerce and the Division of Safety and Hygiene of the Industrial Commission of Ohio.

Dr. Guyer, now serving his third term as state senator, was recently voted by the Platform Speakers Association as the "best inspirational speaker in "America."

He has introduced a number of laws concerning industrial safety, including a recent proposal for aiding traffic safety one for making an improvement by use of luminous license over the previous year.

It costs the Pharmaceutical industry about 8 Million to perfect a new drug and make it available for your doctor to prescribe it for you.

This is only a fraction of the $313 Million spent annually in the unending search for even more effective drugs to conquer disease and lengthen the life span.

Yet prescribed medicine costs only pennies per dose - the biggest health bargain money can buy.

Miss Jayne Carter Weds In Salineville Ceremonies

The Church of Christ in Salineville was the scene of the wedding of Miss Jayne Ann Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Anderson Carter of W. Main St., Salineville, and Edward Alfred Glenn of San Mateo, Calif., son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Glenn of Philadelphia, the evening of March 20 at 7:30

Gerald Finnie, minister of the Westlake Church of Christ in Cleveland, officiated for the double-ring ceremony by c a n d l elight, under a white wroughtiron wedding arch accented with coral callas.

The altar was banked with cibotium, palms, ferns and arrangements of gladioli and chrysanthemums. Double sets of 14branch candelabras with coral and moonlight tapers, completed the setting. Single coral callas, with white maline, marked the family pews.

Miss Sue Earl, church organist, presented a half hour of wedding music. Mrs. Patty Higgins sang "Because," "More" and "I Love You Truly."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie with long, pointed sleeves. It was fashioned with floral design Chantilly lace appliques, which accented the scoop neckline and full skirt with a sweeping train. Gracing the chapel-length train was a party. Princess Grace bow at the fitted bodice

She wore a bouffant fingertip veil of imported pure silk illusion, held in place by a Jacqueline crown of tear drops and seed pearls. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom.

She carried a cascade bouwhite satin, wedding ribbon and lover's knots. The bride obincluding a sixpence in her shoe.

Mrs. Carolyn Newbold of Columbus, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Her balstyled with white lace and she wore a matching headpiece with a theater veil, and carried a cascade bouquet of roses and white carnations, intertwined with ivy streamers. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Patty Secrest of Salem, cousin of the bride, Miss Ruth Ann Coleman of East Liverpool, Mrs. Vonnie Earl Trail of Cleveland and Miss Mary Lou Weick of Alliance, all friends of the bride. Ugh! These garments are usually washed in hot water in our washing machines. The hot water and detergent (especially the detergent) softens the fibers of any cotton goods and gets down into the crown of the fabric.

While the garment you are laundering is still wet ... now is the time to do your light starching! Whether it be machine starching, dip - type starching, or spray starching!

I suggest that after you hang these garments on your clothesline, or before you put them into your dryer, you take a can of spray starch and spray exactly where you want them heavily starched!

By using this method, the starch, whatever type you use, (plastic included.) will absorb into the wet fibers which have been warmed thus preventing spots and will last much longer

And ALWAYS use spray starches on the WRONG side of dark colored fabrics. Then if it does happen to spot, it

-Junior Editors Quiz on-PRISM

QUESTION: How does a prism work?

* * * ANSWER: A prism is a solid which can have a number of shapes, the most familiar of which we show at upper right, these being generally made of glass. Sir Isaac Newton, the great scientist who discovered the laws of gravity, made a startling experiment with a glass prism. He found that if a beam of white light (sunlight) came through a small opening as a narrow beam onto the prism, it would fan out on a card, into a brilliant band of colors. Newton realized that all these colors had been contained in the beam of light. The colors had separted because each color had been bent, or "refracted," as it passed through the prism, and each color had a slightly different amount of refraction. Look at the diagram below, where we see a cross-section of a prism, white light coming in from the left. The dotted lines show the bending of the light rays. You can see that the upper ones, which become blues and violets, are bending the most, while the lower rays, oranges and reds, bend least. Much scientific knowledge came as a result of this discovery. By a principle called "internal reflection," a ray of light can also be made to come out at right angles to the direction in which it entered the prism.

FOR YOU TO DO: See if you can buy or borrow a glass prism and repeat Sir Isaac's famous experiment. You can produce the same colors we see in the rainbow.

* * * Mark Lura of Zion, Ill., wins this week's grand prize of a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review.
